KINGSTON, NEW YORK, MAY 27, 1947 GARDENS OF OTHER FOLKS

Garden tours are coming more and more to be an American custom. Communities in all parts of the country, at all seasons of the year, are organizing these sight-seeing expeditions into other people's gardens. What a good idea it is!

A different flower arrangement is spotted in one, a better handling of heavy clay soil, a cultivating trick. The well-kept beds, the smell of freshly-turned earth, the vigor of this plot's delphinium, and that planter's iris, all give visitors new ideas and strengthened inspiration to go home and do likewise.

These jaunts are valuable whether they be into elaborate estates maintaining corps of workers, or if they include only modest little backyard projects, managed by the man of the house and anyone in the family who will help him. This garden gadding is worth while at any time of the year, but perhaps best of all in spring when outdoor ambitions the family who have a great advantage there, sir. Then all the summer lies ahead.

These tours can be big affairs embracing a whole city, or simpler undertakings within a neighborhood. They make for improved gardens, and gardens improve everybody.

GIVE UP LONDON?

South Africa as the seat of the capital of the British Commonwealth of Nations is suggested as a possibility by Hanson W. Baldwin, military critic of the New York Times. It is so far from regions where population is concentrated that it should be safe from the atomic bomb if any city can be. Also the sea route from Europe to Asia by way of the Cape of Good Hope can probably be kept open in time of war, where the Mediterranean, Suez Canal and Red Sea could easily be blocked.

Still, can anyone imagine the British locating their capital anywhere but in London? They would probably feel much like the Byzantine empress Theodora, who in the 6th century rejected proposals to move the capital of the empire from Constantinople to Cyrcne in North Africa. When told that to remain in Constantinople meant death to herself and to the emperor, she replied, "Empire is a splendid winding-sheet." The British Empire will, it is safe to say, stand or fall with London.

NATIONAL SURPLUS WEEK

Quit holding goods for high profits, or even low profits. Let everyone get together in a goods-moving National Surplus Week. So urges the Robert B. Grady Co., a New York advertising firm, in an advertisement "published as a public service." This asks manufacturers, wholesalers and retailers to inventory all undesirable, discontinued or overpriced stock on hand, cut to its true value, whether that be two per cent less or 90 per cent, and put it on sale for a week. If anything remains unsold, give it to charity. Then start afresh with the manufacture of new

This sweeping proposal captures the imagination. While there will always be some to hang back, those who try it might find that their loss was less than they had expected, and that they had gained in public good will.

There is a revival of the parlor sport of making out a reading list for a desert island. The average man so situated would be too busy trying to keep from starvation and death by exposure to have much time to

TRIBUTE TO BUSINESS

The grand old gospel of "peace on earth and good will to men" may well function in the realm of business also, as in other branches of human activity. "The life is more than meat, and the body than raiment," says the Scripture; but generally, in these modern and tolerant times, there seems to be no good reason why the two cannot function together, to the interest of both.

Just as peace has its victories no less renowned than war, so useful trade merits applause in its own special lines of human ac- facturer.

SCIENCE VS. SENSE

Dr. Harlow Shapley, Director of the Harvard Observatory, is a big man in the scientific world. When it comes to seeing stars, there is no American superior to him.

Dr. Shapley, the astronomer from Harvard, in speech at Madison Square Garden said:

"You're welcome here, boys. Let me help you -you there, with a subversive grin, are you a dripping Communist? No? You deny it? That means that you are one. Back up the wagon, Mr. J. Edgar, we've got him.

"Back up 21,408 wagons, Mr. Attorney General, take them all away. The Gestapo purge is on.

Then he goes astronomical:
"So far it is only this planet, as I say, that our

"So far it is only this planet, as I say, that our government would make safe for capitalism. . ."
"Yes, only this planet so far falls within the comprehensive scheme. But listen. Don't tell anybody, but recently the astronomers have found that there is methane out beyond the moon in the atmosphere of Jupiter. Now methane is the basic hydrocarbon fundamental in the building up of petrolum.

"If the oil companies should hear of this discovery, don't tell, I predict that with many plous words, poured out over the radio to the interruption words, poured out over the radio to the interruption of one or more soap opera (subversive of free enterprise, I call that!)—I predict that with pious words, and hiding behind your idealism, our government would begin to mess up the operation of the solar system.

Of course, anyone can ridicule anything. That is what made Minsky's buriesque. Yet, capitalism made this country the most productive nation on Earth—the country that was able to help socialistic Russia to the tune of $11,000,000,000 during the last war. I do not note that any socialist country Russia to the tune of $11,000,000,000 during the last war. I do not note that any socialist country contributed much to the feeding and rehabilitation of the starving people of Europe. Nor did any of them provide hospital supplies. It was this benighted capitalist country which contributed 72 per cent of all the operations of UNRRA. It was this capitalist country that loaned Great Britain $3,500,000,000 to experiment with socialism. It is right here in this awful place that the line is forming for loans—loans for France, loans for China, loans for Greece and Turkey, and to Korea, support for Germany and Japan—aid to friend and foe, aid to great powers and little countries.

Capitalism must be terribly bad, professor, but it is still the United States that is exporting steel, automobiles, clothes and food to Europe and Asia. In fact, American food is so esential that even the Ukraine and White Russia still requires our aid two harvets after the war. If we are so awful.

the Earth in a profligacy heretofore unknown. This war cost the American people $31,000,000,000 and war cost the American people $31,000,000,000,000 and much of it was an outpouring of our natural resources, oil, iron ore, coal, copper, wood, hauxite, lead and zine and all sorts of other raw materials. These can never be given hack to us. Have a look at the Mesabi Range, professor, and tell us what we are to do for high-grade ores 50 years from now. Yes, we want to rebuild our oil reserves. We should like to have some reservoirs against the day when this country runs short of oil. It is too bad for us that other countries treasure their natural resources better than we do ours. They hoard; while we made them a present of more than $40,000,000,000 of our resources and the product of our manpower in the form of Lend-Lease. We might begin to hoard too, professor. We might follow your advice and become isolationists. Is that what looking at Jupiter suggests to you, professor?

That Body of Yours

By James W. Barton, M. D. PATIENT COMES FIRST

Some of our younger physicians, after doing their interne duties in a city hospital, open an office in the city and wait some months to obtain a practice that will support them. Others go right to some country village or town in need of a physician and make a fair living from the start. Which of these physicians, city or country, will become better equipped for all-around service to his patients?

equipped for all-around service to his patients?

This question cannot be answered in a competent manner because it will depend upon the physician himself and how he applies himself to the opportunities about him. Undoubtedly, the country physician will become more self-reliant as he has to tackle any and every kind of case—bables, children, young and old adults—with all kinds of illnesses. By facing and handling all types of patients with their illnesses, the country doctor inspires great faith in the hearts and minds of his patients. The city physician, in a great many cases feels—quite properly—that there are specialists in various branches of medicine who can give the patient the henefit of superior knowledge and skill in their particular specialty.

There was a time when city physicians endeavored to treat all manner of ailments because they knew their patients better than a specialist could know them, and sometimes because they felt that their patients expected them to know and do everything. (An editorial in "Clinical Medicine" puts this situation as follows):

"At the present time, any patient with a severe illness is not, or should not, be the sole responsibility of any one physician regardless of how learned or studious. The reason: No one today can carry all the present knowledge of diagnosis and treatment in his mind." It is true that one physician, the family physician, must guide the patient along, but he should ask for consultation and advice from other

Wagner Labor Relations Act over the protests of those labor-union leaders who want the law to remain unchanged has been demonstrated to no small extent by a decision just issued by the National Labor Relations Board.

For a long time there has been criticism that when an election is held among employes to choose a representative for collective bargaining, the board has a rule which really prevents a majority of the employes from declining to the results of the two elections conducted in this very case indicates that the assumption is open to sufficient question to make it times for this board to depart from the practice to which our fellowing of the employes from declining timed in other types of elections.

Thus, the rule is that if the ballot contains the name of a C.I.O. union, an A.F.L. union and a third category—no union—the board would, or course, designate as bargaining unit the union which received a majority. If, however, neither the A.F.L. nor the C.I.O. got a majority the board would order a "run-off" election and, instead of keeping on the new ballot the two categories which received the highest number of the worders, the rule requires that the members of the board can called the "run-off" ballot contain only the names of the two rival unions, even if one of them had come out third in the initial cleek. #### GARDENS OF OTHER FOLKS

Garden tours are coming more and more to be an American custom. Communities in all parts of the country, at all seasons of the year, are organizing these sight-seeing expeditions into other people's gardens. What a good idea it is!

A different flower arrangement is spotted in one, a better handling of heavy clay soil, a cultivating trick. The well-kept beds, the smell of freshly-turned earth, the vigor of this plot's delphinium, and that planter's iris, all give visitors new ideas and strengthened inspiration to go home and do likewise.

These jaunts are valuable whether they be into elaborate estates maintaining corps little backyard projects, managed by the man of the house and anyone in the family who will help him. This garden gadding is worth while at any time of the year, but perhaps best of all in spring when outdoor ambitions and horticultural hopes are brightest. Then all the summer lies ahead.

a whole city, or simpler undertakings within a neighborhood. They make for improved gardens, and gardens improve everybody.

GIVE UP LONDON?

South Africa as the seat of the capital of the British Commonwealth of Nations is suggested as a possibility by Hanson W. Baldwin, military critic of the New York Times. It is so far from regions where population is concentrated that it should be safe from the atomic bomb if any city can be. Also the sea route from Europe to Asia by way of the Cape of Good Hope can probably be kept open in time of war, where the Mediterranean, Suez Canal and Red Sea could easily be blocked.

Still, can anyone imagine the British locating their capital anywhere but in London? They would probably feel much like the Byzantine empress Theodora, who in the 6th century rejected proposals to move the capital of the empire from Constantinople to Cyrene in North Africa. When told that to remain in Constantinople meant death to herself and to the emperor, she replied, "Empire is a splendid winding-sheet." The British Empire will, it is safe to say, stand or fall with London.

NATIONAL SURPLUS WEEK

Quit holding goods for high profits, or even low profits. Let everyone get together in a goods-moving National Surplus Week. So urges the Robert B. Grady Co., a New York advertising firm, in an advertisement "published as a public service." This asks manufacturers, wholesalers and retailers to inventory all undesirable, discontinued or overpriced stock on hand, cut to its true value, whether that be two per cent less or 90 per cent, and put it on sale for a week. If anything remains unsold, give it to charity. Then start afresh with the manufacture of new

This sweeping proposal captures the imagination. While there will always be some to hang back, those who try it might find that their loss was less than they had expected, and that they had gained in public good will.

TRIBUTE TO BUSINESS

The grand old gospel of "peace on earth | cent, and works better. and good will to men" may well function in the realm of business also, as in other branches of human activity. "The life is more | in the night, with nobody at hand to "ring than meat, and the body than raiment," says out, wild bells, and let her die." the Scripture; but generally, in these modern and tolerant times, there seems to be no good reason why the two cannot function together, to the interest of both.

Just as peace has its victories no less replause in its own special lines of human ac- | facturer.

PATIENT COMES FIRST

Some of our younger physicians, after doing heir interne duties in a city hospital, open an office in the city and wait some months to obtain a practice that will support them. Others go right to some country village or town in need of a physician and make a fair living from the start. Which of these physicians, city or country, will become better equipped for all-around service to his patients?

This question cannot be answered in a competent manner because it will depend upon the physician himself and how he applies himself to the opportunities about him. Undoubtedly, the country physician will become more self-reliant as he has to tackle any and every kind of case-babies, children, young and old adults-with all kinds of illnesses. By facing and handling all types of patients with their illnesses, the country doctor inspires great faith in the hearts and minds of his patients. The city physician, in a great many cases feelsquite properly—that there are specialists in various branches of medicine who can give the patient the enefit of superior knowledge and skill in their particular specialty. There was a time when city physicians endeavored to treat all manner of ailments because they knew their patients better than a specialist could know them, and sometimes because they felt that their patients expected them to know and do everything. (An editorial in "Clinical Medicine" puts this situation as follows): "At the present time, any patient with a severe illness is not, or should not, be the sole responsibility of any one physician regardless of how learned the school year. or studious. The reason: No one today can carry all the present knowledge of diagnosis and treatment in his mind." It is true that one physician, the family physician, must guide the patient along, but he | the Albany Hospital. should ask for consultation and advice from other physicians as, after all, the patient comes first.

Bride's Dress Still News

(Saturday Evening Post) A generation of newspaper editors has looked sourly on one of the standard parts of the conventional wedding story—the elaborate description of the bride's costume and less-detailed references of what was worn by the bridesmaids. According to the practical editorial mind, the real news is who is getting married to whom. Some editors have even timidly thought about reforming the society news by leaving out any mention of the bridal garb.

Well, for the benefit of those who may have considered such a reform, it has been tried and it won't work. In a recent issue of the Pierce County Tribune, of Rugby, North Dakota, Editor Frank Hornstein makes the following admission and surrender:

"Some time ago our society editor talked me into the idea that we should have wedding accounts without all the falderal of who wore what. With some misgivings, I consented. But, beginning with this week, we are again doing ing, "as I came into the store this them as of old. friend Louis Watson as his partner.

Do not ask me how North happened to get into a contract of three no trump with a singleton heart in his own hand and a singleton spade in his partner's. Contract bidding 12 years ago was not as scientific as it is today and we often found ourselves playing a hand in the wrong contract.

South would have had little or no trouble making five-odd in hearts. However Jacoby was one of the few players who would have defeated three no trump.

When his opening lead of the jack of spades held the trick, the average player might have continued with a spade. Declarer would have won with the acc, knocked out the ace of hearts and made five no trump. Jacoby decided that his only chance to beat the contract was to find the king of diamonds in his partner's hand. If declarer had the diamond king. Jacoby did not see how he could take another trick except the heart ace.

So at this point he led the queen

So at this point he led the queen of diamonds, and you can see what that play did to the declarer. It killed the whole dummy. When he did establish the heart suit, he had no entry to it.

If Jacoby had led the deuce of diamonds instead of the queen, declarer would have played low from dummy, and no play that West could have made would defeat the contract.

Versatile is the Word for Ham Smoked ham is the most useable meat I know of. So many meals can be had out of one smoked ham, and no matter how you serve it, the unmatchable flavor of smoked ham is always "tops." The economical thing to do is to buy a whole ham. Cook one half - save the other for future eating. Bake, broil, or fry slices. Try

Baked Ham Slice

Place thick slice of ham in covered casserole and bake in 325° F. oven for 1 to 11/4 hours for a 11/2 inch slice or 11/2 to 13/4 hours for a 2 inch slice. Brown sugar and cloves, fruit juice or mustard and milk may be used over the ham during baking. Uncover the last 15-20 minutes for browning.

1 cup cooked, cubed ham (about 6 ounces) 1 cup corn, cut from cob or canned pepper 1/4 cup finely chopped onion 2 tbsps. flour 1/2-1/4 cup milk

Alternate layers of corn, ham, green pepper and potatoes in baking dish. Season with salt, pepper and finely chopped onion. Sprinkle flour over top, then add milk, cover and bake in 350° F. oven for 1 hour or until potatoes are tender. Remove cover and brush top of potatoes with butter. Bake 10-15 more minutes or until potatoes are brown. 5-6 servings.

JOSEPH B. SHATTAN A 1944 graduate of Kingston High, Shattan is first-string catcher on the Champlain College varsity baseball team. He is a Navy veteran taking a liberal arts course at Champlain. The Champlain Bluejays are playing a 17-game schedule. Shattan is the son of Mrs. Sarah Shattan, of 326 Washington avenue, this city. While at K.H.S. he played varsity baseball, football and basketball.

The crepe hangers had a field day in Beacon, following Melia Bettina's 59-second knockout by Gus Lesnevich Friday night at Madison Square Garden. The kayo set an all-time record for brevity in a main event in the Garden and burst a bubble Jimmy Grippo has been blowing up for several years.

Melio's sudden demise as a heavyweight contender, after he had campaigned for years for recognition flooded Beacon with tears and made Grippo a sad magician, indeed. Maybe something was wrong with Bettina. We mean before Lesnevich poleaxed him. It seemed inconceivable that the likeable Beacon southpasy could be pulverized by an opponent who never has distinguished himself as a killer. Lesnevich is a good fighter but never a great one and his knockout record is only average. Yet in 59 seconds he accomplished something that none of the best heavyweights in the country could do for ten years.

George Palmateer, the Poughkeepsie scribe, sensed something was wrong the moment Bettina entered the ring. In his account of the fight, he wrote: "The burly Beaconite never threw a punch. Entering the ring clad in a drab, blue bathrobe, he stood motionless beneath the glare of the floodights, appearing like a man bewildered. He looked pale and drawn, confirming reports that he has been ill."

Grippo confirmed a report that Melio had been ill, but passed it off as "only a slight cold. It was nothing serious to worry about." "It was a freak punch, it could happen to anybody," he kept repeating "It's too bad... too bad."
